ROOSEVELT URGES MILDRED DRY LAW TO REDUCE CRIME.

Says He Would Vote For Modification If in Congress.

New York, April 22.—Theodore Roosevelt, son of the late President, tonight urged the repeal or modification of the Volstead act and the substitution of local option in the various States, permitting alcoholic beverages of a content legal under the Constitution.

Speaking before the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, the former assistant secretary of the navy asserted the prohibition enforcement act "has brought about law violation on a more commercialized and gigantic scale than our country has ever known before."

When Mr. Roosevelt, who as a candidate for governor of New York in 1924 was endorsed by the State Anti-Saloon League, said he is opposed to the return of the saloon. "I am convinced," he said, "that the repeal or modification of the Volstead law does not predicate the return of the saloon. That can be prevented by enactment."

"We are members of the federal congress, I would vote for the modification or repeal of the Volstead act. I believe this to be absolutely necessary in order to check the murder, corruption and other evils that have followed in the train of this law. I want no misunderstanding on this, however. Public officials should endeavor to enforce this law."

SURCOUF ELECTRIC CO. GETS BID.

Archie Surcouf, proprietor of the Surcouf Electric Company, who put in a bid for supplying and hanging the electric lighting fixtures for the Masonic Temple, Bay St. Louis, was informed last evening that his price had been accepted, and he was given a signed letter to that effect.

It was the Surcouf Electric Company that did all the wiring for the new temple building, a job of no small magnitude, and that it was all carried out according to plans and specifications and met all insurance and other requirements, is best attested by the fact that the supervising firm of Geary Oakes, one of the best of its kind, and "conscientiously exacting" approved the work as

A masked mob of something like 100 men, coming to Poplarville, in Pearl River county, in automobiles, shortly after 2 o'clock Thursday morning, entered the Pearl River county jail by breaking through the gate and two doors, took Harold (Doc) Jackson, who was to have gone on trial the same day for the murder of Mrs. Chris Pearson, in 1924, to a point near Picayune, and hanged him.

The work of getting the man from the Poplarville jail was done with speed and quietness. No one saw the attack on the jail, and the mob ne'er saw Jackson from it and departed in an automobile, except the drivers of the Poplarville Hospital, which is located a short distance away from the jail.

The nurses had been warned to make no outcry and not to try to call for reinforcements over the telephone. They heeded the warning.

It was not until Sheriff Smith, who had been in Hattiesburg, arrived several minutes afterward that the actual became known.

The band of 100 or more men, occupying a score or more automobiles, appeared suddenly at the jail at about 2 o'clock. A half dozen of the men, carrying a man, were stationed at each corner. Others went to the hospital to warn the nurses.

Acetylene torches had been brought to the jail by the men. The jail is surrounded by a high picket iron fence, through which a steel gate opens. This was burned through. The leaders then went to the front door of the jail, where another iron door met them. This, too, was burned through by torches.

Jackson Awake.

Entering the jail they mounted the steps, and in the first cell at the top they found their man. Jackson was stretched across his cot. He was awake.

The lock to this door was burned out, and the door swung open on its hinges.

Jackson, clad in his underclothing, had a pair of trousers, and his iron cot was told to get up. He did so.

"Come with us," the leader told the man.

Jackson offered no resistance. He arose to his feet, and started to reach for his clothing.

"Come along," the leader said.

"Let me get my clothing," the man asked.

"You'll be in eternity in a very few minutes. You should worry about your clothes," he told him.

At the final command, Jackson stepped forward and his hands were behind his back. He was escorted down the steps by the men, whose faces were hidden with handkerchiefs, and placed in an automobile, the motor of which was still running, and the car shot forward in the darkness.

In its wake came the scree of more than ten cars, and within five minutes the last had disappeared in the direction of Picayune.

While the mob had surrounded the jail, and had placed pickets some distance away, John Williams, of Bogalusa, started toward the hospital to obtain some medicine from Dr. R. H. Stewart for his wife. Williams was held up by the masked men. When he told them the object of his mission, they allowed him to pass through the lines, but they made him promise that he would not send out an alarm, or try to telephone.

Williams told Dr. Stewart of his experience. By that time the mob had almost completed their task of getting into the jail. Dr. Stewart made no attempt to telephone for aid at that late hour. Williams, after obtaining the prescription, left the hospital and was not molested.

Jackson's body was found by Sheriff Smith shortly after 4 o'clock that morning. It was suspended, mid-air from the long bridge.

Sheriff Smith, who had gone to Hattiesburg for a prisoner, returned to Poplarville several minutes after it was learned that the man had been taken from jail and hurried away in an automobile occupied by masked men. The sheriff started in pursuit, going toward Picayune, accompanied by as many of his deputies as he could get together at that late hour.

Body Located.

It was shortly after 4 o'clock when he found the man swinging from the bridge. Sheriff Smith and his deputies drew the body up, untied the rope and summoned the undertaker. Life had been extorted for several minutes. The body was almost cold.

Jackson's neck was broken by a 14-foot drop. They tied one end of the rope to a steel girder, and the other was placed about the victim's neck. His hands were tied behind his back, and he was hurled from the side of the bridge and dropped as far as the rope would permit it.

No one appeared before the coroner's jury who could tell what transpired afterwards. The mob, variously estimated at 100 men, dispersed with as much suddenness as it had appeared in Poplarville a few hours before.

There was nothing about the place where the hanging took place by which the culprits might be identified.

GRAND JURY OF HANCOCK CLEARED JACKSON.

After Diligent Examination and Investigation Unable to Get Sufficient and Trustworthy Evidence to Indict—Ordered His Release.

The grand jury of Hancock county, in circuit court, Walter A. White, presiding, on Tuesday afternoon returned a special report to the court liberating Harold (Doc) Jackson, held in the killing of William Mingee and John A. McLemore, federal entomologists, as far as this county and this specific charge was concerned.

The special report, signed by H. C. Glover, foreman, was given to the court, as follows:

"We, the grand jury, have made a careful and conscientious investigation in the case against Harold (Doc) Jackson, charged with the murder of Messrs. McLemore and Mingee, but have been unable to get sufficient trustworthy evidence to justify us in returning a true bill against him."

The court at once ordered Jackson's release from the charge of killing McLemore and Mingee, but because there is a capias in the hands of the sheriff of Pearl River county, based on an indictment for the murder of Mrs. Elinine Pearson, that Jackson be held in the Gulfport jail by the sheriff of Harrison county, and in due time the sheriff of Harrison county turn Jackson over to the sheriff of Pearl River county on demand. The murder of Mrs. Pearson is said to have occurred in Nicholson.

Jesse Favre, recently convicted and sentenced to life servitude, was summoned from the Parchman Farm and appeared before the grand jury and was thoroughly quizzed. Even his testimony, it is said, was not sufficient to warrant Jackson's further arrest.

Favre appeared attired in a palm beach suit, well groomed and showed plainly that three meals a day and regular prison habits were for his good, having picked up so many more pounds of weight, and adding to his health and appearance. He was returned to Jackson and on to Parchman.

Jackson's release, although he was turned over to the authorities of Pearl River county to answer a murder charge, possibly suggested the punishment which was summarily dealt him Thursday morning near Picayune.

APPROACHING NUPTIALS.

Invitations are issued by Mrs. William Joseph Chapman, of Bay St. Louis, announcing the approaching marriage of her daughter Alice to Mr. John Walter Duquaine, which happy event will occur on Friday evening next, April 30th, at 6:30 o'clock, Christ Episcopal Church, this city.

The bride-elect is a well known member of the younger set, both in Bay St. Louis and New Orleans, where she attended Newcomb College, always a popular member of her set. The groom-elect is a well known club man and business man, a son of one of the best known and oldest, aristocratic families de la Nouvelle Orleans.

There will be many out-of-town guests to witness the beautiful ceremony of the wedding.

HERE AT LAST—"THE BIMBO" AT THE BOSTON.

"The Bimbo" is the latest Walk Over Shoe, the latest style bit and most popular. And the price is only $7.00. It is the young fellow's shoe. Young men wear them because they're stylish and natty; make older men look younger. The Boston Shoe Store is advertising "The Bimbo," and a special drive and sale is now on. Thousands of The Echo readers will read the ad, and profit thereby.

LOCAL K. C. TO HOLD INITIATION.

It was shortly after 4 o'clock when he found the man swinging from the bridge. Sheriff Smith and his deputies drew the body up, untied the rope and summoned the undertaker. Life had been extorted for several minutes. The body was almost cold.

Attorney General Rush Knox, who was in the governor's office when the telegram was received by Secretary Jenkins, exclaimed: "That crime is deplorable and cannot be too severely condemned." In view of the fact that Governor Whitfield is out of the city, Secretary Jenkins at once filed a telegram to Sheriff A. J. Smith, at Poplarville, in the name of the governor, asking for a detailed report of the occurrence.

DR. C. M. SHIPP TO HEAD BAY ST. LOUIS ROTARY CLUB

MIILLIONS TO BE SPENT ON GULF COAST.

Recent Survey of Improvements Runs Over $55,000,000—Power Companies, Railroads and Governments Investing Millions.

SURVEY BY GORDON HUFF.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast will have its first real amusement palace when the project costing $1,250,000 is completed in Holmaaven-on-the-Gulf, plans for which are now underway. H. M. Moir, proprietor of the Morrison Hotel, of Chicago, will arrive shortly to confer with local officials relative to the construction of the project, consisting of a super club, large dancing floor, summer and winter plunge and formal gardens and promenade balconies. The venture will be connected with the Herbert G. Shipp interests here, who are spending $2,000,000 in development on beach frontage.

Public and private improvements running to a total of $48,145,289.48 have been authorized (completely financed), or are under actual construction on the Mississippi Gulf Coast between Bay St. Louis, in Hancock county, and Pascagoula, in Jackson county, according to survey completed by the Mississippi Coast Club and announced by Warren Jackson, managing director.

Other officers, committees, etc., are appointed and will be named later. Much work of a constructive nature is planned for the Rotary Club 1926-27. Boys' work, club work, civic and other matters will be given time and attention, aiming at all times for results. The program for the new year is of unusual interest to the builder and do-it-yourselfer.

Dr. Shipp succeeded President Ernest L. LeHard, who has given the club his best efforts and always aiming at great improvement.

On Wednesday night—Dr. J. A. Evans, Vice President.

At the annual meeting for the election of directors and officers for the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, held Wednesday night, Dr. C. M. Shipp was elected president, and Dr. Jas. A. Evans, vice president, both splendid selections.

By popular ballot the following new board was elected for the year, beginning July 1st, when the officers will also assume their respective positions.

The new board, in alphabetical order: Dr. Jas. A. Evans, Ernest L. LeHard, Joseph O. Maufay, C. McDonald, George R. Rea, Leo W. Seal, Dr. C. M. Shipp, H. S. Weston.

Other officers, committees, etc., are appointed and will be named later. Much work of a constructive nature is planned for the Rotary Club 1926-27. Boys' work, club work, civic and other matters will be given time and attention, aiming at all times for results. The program for the new year is of unusual interest to the builder and do-it-yourselfer.

Millions Not Included.

These totals were arrived at through a compilation of figures furnished by individual builders, developers and city and county governments. They do not include the several millions of dollars worth of development, hotel, residential and public improvements known to be in the "projected" or organization stage, but as yet not publicly announced by backers.

The survey shows that every type of interest as well as city, county, state and federal governments are participating in the wave of unprecedented building that is sweeping over the entire Coast area. Transportation facilities, as well as general public utilities, are well represented.

The Mississippi Power Company is spending $1,500,000 in building a hydroelectric transmission line through the Coast counties to turn low cost power to all Coast industries, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad is spending $500,000 and is considering an expenditure of $250,000 more; the Illinois Central, $230,000; the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company, $150,000, and the Southwestern Gas and Electric Company, $150,000.

Among larger improvements is the Harrison county sea wall, at a cost of $3,400,000. Others include the d'Uville causeway across Bay of Biloxi, the concrete and steel bridge across Bay of St. Louis, another across Bay of Biloxi between Biloxi and Ocean Springs, which is partially authorized; a fourth across Pascagoula river at Pascagoula, and still another across the Escatawba river at Moss Point. These bridges will cost a total of $2,100,000.

Public improvements projected or announced as in the formation stage, are:

BURBANK, PLANT WIZARD.

Maintaining his belief that death ends all, so far as the individual is concerned, Luther Burbank passed peacefully away at his California home, at the age of 77. While the conclusions which he held respecting life and death are abhorrent to the orthodox, the whole world unites in paying homage to his genius as a naturalist.

Born on a Massachusetts farm on March 7, 1849, he was from childhood a lover of nature and an earnest student of plant life. As a young man he developed the Burbank potato, a dozen of which constituted his principal capital when he migrated to California in 1875 to begin his epoch-making experiments in the production of new fruits, flowers, vegetables, grains, grasses and trees.

Of his many thousands of new developments, a few may be mentioned: Eliminating the seeds from various fruits, eliminating the shell enclosing the kernel of stone fruits, changes in form and color of fruits, crossing various fruits and flowers to produce entirely new varieties, developing a white blackberry, and other astounding feats of a similar nature, which it would take many pages to enumerate.

One of his greatest accomplishments was the production of a thornless cactus, which has a high economic value as a forage plant. At the time of his death he had about 5,000 experiments under way, but he had recently made provision for his work to be continued and his wonderful gardens will be kept up by horticultural experts.

America's great "plant wizard" is gone, but he has left more of practical results to mankind than any other worker in his field that ever lived.

WELCOME TO NEW STARS.

In view of the general impression that undue jealousy exists among musical artists, the kind consideration shown to three young American singers by the older members of the Metropolitan Opera Company during the past season is worthy of note.

Marion Talley, Mary Lewis and Dorothy Flexner are the trio of new operatic stars, whose initial appearance before the world's most exacting audience were cheered by the European veterans, both men and women. The feelings of the young singers were expressed in recent interviews.

"Everyone in the company has been perfectly lovely to me," said Marion Talley. "Just before I went on in Rigoletto, several of the artists came to my dressing room and said the little things that mean so much when a test has to be met."

The others spoke in a similar vein of the kind and helpful attitude of the foreign stars, whose viewpoint was given by the famed prima donna, Lucrezia Bori, who said: "I am glad to see the entrance of Americans into the company, not only on account of the personal regard it may mean for them, but for the encouragement it will give other American singers and the development of music in this country."

The only discouragement given the newcomers was some comment by a few smart New York critics, who, if they themselves could sing, would not be critics.

ONLY A STRAY PUP.

What does a stray pup amount to, anyway? What does it matter if such a helpless animal is abused and tortured to make sport for a gang of thoughtless boys? Who cares?

One small boy cared—and because he cared, he made a friend—a friend who didn't forget.

Some years ago a kindly man named Jacob Siler walked along the bank of the Mississippi river near St. Louis and came upon a group of boys who were amusing themselves by throwing a stray pup into the river time after time, in spite of the protests of one small companion. Finally the pup's defender engaged the others in frantic combat to save the wretched animal from drowning. He battled so courageously that he won the day and saved the pup.

Mr. Siler commended the boy, whose name was Otto Schmidt, and between the two a life-long friendship sprang up. Recently Siler died and left $7,500 to the boy, now a man, whose humane instincts and courage had rescued the poor dog and won the admiration of the casual passerby.

Those who befriend unfortunate animals do not always obtain material rewards such as came to Otto Schmidt but they inevitably have the reward of an approving conscience, which is greater still.

Mississippi Coast citizens are interested in the fact that Harry C. Moir, owner of the Morrison Hotel, Chicago, the second largest hotel in the world, will be on the Mississippi Coast within a few days to let contracts for the erection in Homestead of a winding roadway subdivision between Gulfport and Biloxi for an amusement place, consisting of a super-club, a large dancing floor, a summer and winter swimming plunge and formal garden and promenade balcony. The cost of this improvement will be $1,250,000.

Averaging about 160 miles an hour, or two and two-thirds miles a minute, a mail airplane covered the 726 miles between Chicago and New York in 4 hours and 35 minutes actual flying time. "few years ago such a feat would have made big news; now it is just a part of the day's work."

COSTLY SNOOPING.

It is easy to get a resolution through Congress providing for the investigation of this or that industry or condition, but the net result, so far as the taxpayer is concerned, is generally zero.

A case in point is the inquiry, started in 1918, regarding the valuation of railroad properties, with a view to determining whether they are over-capitalized. After nearly thirteen years the task is a little more than one-half completed, at a cost to the government of $25,000,000 and an expense of $85,000,000 to the railroads, yet the results so far tend to establish the fact that the railroads have not been over-capitalized, as was charged by the late Senator LaFollette, who was primarily responsible for this waste of approximately $110,000,000.

No one will deny that it is desirable to keep watch over certain activities of great corporations, but these matters had better be left to the several executive departments, which are charged with the duty of carrying out the will of Congress.

Congressional investigations are almost invariably inspired by political considerations, without any real solicitude for the welfare of the public at large, and they involve an indefensible drain upon the public treasury.

BRISBANE BUILDS WITH BRICK AND STONE AS WELL AS WITH WORDS.

Arthur Brisbane, editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, is building an apartment house on the northeast corner of Fifty-seventh street and Park avenue, the junction of the two widest streets in New York city. The building, begun a year ago, will be finished next September. It contains living apartments, restaurants, bank, safety deposit vaults, on the ground floor, and a theater.

The entire building, an apartment hotel, has been rented by Mr. Brisbane to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel people, and it will be operated by the Ritz-Carlton management. The building will be called the "Ritz Tower."

Mr. Brisbane reserves for himself an apartment especially built, which includes the 19th and 20th floors, the two highest floors in the main building below the tower. Well known New Yorkers have rented apartments in the tower above.

The rooms rent for $2,500 a room each, with higher prices for larger rooms. A single large room and bedroom in the tower rents for as much as $18,000 a year.

Outside of his newspaper work, Mr. Brisbane confines his energies to real estate and building, in which, he says, "a man can be his own board of directors and know what is happening."

Mr. Brisbane has numerous other buildings in New York City and elsewhere in the United States now in hand.

He has just completed at 102nd street and Fifth avenue, in New York, on land purchased from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., a garage for 600 cars. He is building on Queens boulevard, across the Fifty-ninth street bridge, in New York, another garage covering a plot of 80,000 square feet.

Some of Mr. Brisbane's other buildings now under way include a 32-story hotel, two buildings of 20 stories each, a 32-story apartment hotel, and one large theatre.

Asked why he does so much building, Mr. Brisbane replied: "After spending your life building columns made of mere words that last only twenty-four hours, it is interesting to build something of solid brick, stone and steel that will last for at least a little while after you are dead."

UNSELFISH IDEALISM BEHIND LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

A recent utterance of the Wisconsin State Journal, estimating the value to a community of its local newspaper, is worthy of reproduction because it carries a vast amount of solid truth encompassed in a few utterances.

Here is what the Journal said:

"The local newspaper in the United States is each year getting on a firmer foundation and becoming more and more useful to its home community."

"It is the home newspaper which boosts the town, year in and year out, which takes the lead in every enterprise which has for its purpose the upbuilding of the community."

"We frequently hear it said that the old-time independent spirit of the newspaper is gone, "that its editorial policy is now subservient to the business office. Yet this is not true.

There is more unselfish idealism in the average local newspaper than in any other business enterprise. It frequently speaks out in the way which it believes will be for the good of the nation and of the community, regardless of what the consequences may be from a business standpoint."

"The local newspaper is the principal booster for the community, and it does its boosting often without hope of material reward. Unfortunately it is the community which neither appreciates nor supports its local newspapers."

BUSINESS BRIEFS.

Gross receipts of British railroads declined about two per cent during 1925.

Sales of life insurance in the United States so far this year have broken all previous records.

Electric ferries will be operated to transfer automobile traffic between New Jersey and New York.

Unusually large shipments of agricultural implements to farmers of the northwest are reported.

Fire caused by lightning destroyed about 7,800,000 barrels of oil on two California tank farms, with a loss of more than $10,000,000.

Twenty laundry properties in the upper section of New York State have been consolidated.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Mayor and Aldermen will receive sealed bids at their regular meeting on Saturday, May 1st, 1926, at 6 o'clock P. M., for one mule team and harness.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

LOCAL ATHLETICS

RACK-A-CHAWS AND LOYOLA SPLIT TWIN BILL.

Two Snappy Games Played Last Sunday—Stanislaus, Loyola and Spring Hill Tie For Champ Honors.

Rock-a-Chaw Park was the scene of battle last Sunday when the locals of Stanislaus waged war against the fast team of Loyola University in two fast, snappy, and well played games of the great national sport. The first game of the billed double-header went over the seven inning route, and the last to the full length of nine spasms.

The first game proved too much for Dunbar, for try as they would the fighting Rocks could not get the ball to speed downward when the said speed would have counted in the tally column. Time after time the local lads hit the lanky Wolf, but their hits went the balloon route and fell into the waiting hands of 100 per cent fielders who were camping in the outer gardens.

Smith and Roone, of center and left, took everything that came their way, the former saving seven chances which he handled perfectly, and the latter accepting five in the same order. That was in the first game. In the second contest of these two was only one went three.

Jimmy La Nasa, who mounted the mound for the Rocks in the first contest and he pitched a good, heady game, and received gilt edged support by bird him, but the breaks went wrong and Loyola won.

The locals lost a good chance in the third, when, with one out, La Nasa singled to right and Rinaudo was given free transportation to first; then Blaize raised a high one to Smith at center, who zipped it to Montz, Dunbar to Vorhoff to Weddle; first on errors, Loyola 1.

Score by innings:

Loyola — 101,000 —

Stanislaus — 200,010 x-3

Summary: Runs, Rinaudo, Blaize, Collier; Sullivan, Vorhoff; error, Rinaudo; two-base hit, Bonura; first on balls, off Collier 2, off Dunbar 1; struck out, by Collier 3, by Dunbar 3; left on bases, Stanislaus 3, Loyola 7; double play, Schwartz to Bonura to Montz; first base on errors, Stanislaus 1; hit by pitcher, by Collier (Sullivan); by Dunbar (Schwartz). Umpires: Gaddy and Solomon.

A triple by Smith in the seventh and a single by the same "Old Nick" sewed up the game.

The Second.

Dunbar assayed the "iron man" by pitching two games in succession, and was opposed by "Cotton" Collier in the second contest.

Loyola strated the scoring in the first inning, Sullivan, who made the first run in the first game after a walk, was this time hit by the first pitched ball and took first, scoring when Roone sent a Texas Leaguer over second and the pet to third went wild as Collier failed to back up Rinaudo on the throw from second.

In their half of the initial inning the Rocks seemed determined that the lone Devil would not have all they scored a brood of runs that made things look good when Rinaudo sent a sizzler through third, stole second and went to third on Blaize's hot one through Dunbar, and scored just ahead of Blaize, when Bonura poled a great double into left, cent. x. Things looked grand for a freeze on the scoring, but Schwartz flew to right and Montz popped to third.

The Wolves tallied enough to tie the score in the third on two doubles by Vorhoff and Roone, but there ended their chances because the next two were easy outs.

The Rock-a-Chaws iced the fray in the fifth. Collier started off the dance with a single to right. After La Nasa had popped to the catcher, and Rinaudo kited one to left, Blaize was walked and Bonura got hit by what was termed in the stands as a "funny ball." That filled the bags and business picked up with the roosters. Schwartz ambled up for a crack at the sphere, but Mr. Dunbar was evidently intent on soaking everybody, so he soaked Marchie and in came Collier with the ice bucket.

This ended the scoring that tied the fray one all, and incidentally tied the three teams: Stanislaus, Loyola and Spring Hill, in the South Central championship.

Two more games are to be played in May with Loyola on the Wolves' home grounds by the Rock-a-Chaws to finally decide the S. C. champs.

A. D. Smith, playing center for the visitors, was easily their shining star, accepting nine chances flawlessly. Nick Petitjean's swatting the ball timely added to the triumph of the visitors in the first game.

Captain Blaize's excellent pegging arm and the high class of his taking difficult pop flies behind the rubber made him the luminary of the home team.

Commagere ran in Boudin as a pinch hitter in the last of the first game, but the utility boy couldn't connect. Let it be recorded, however, that if ever this geezer gets his lamps on the ball right, it's going to be bye-bye Spalding, and Zeke'll have a mate, for we opine that these

ABOUT FORD UPHOLSTERY.

Material Is Put to Crucial Test.
Wool Is Determined by Use of Chemicals—Different Tests Made and How Carried Out of Interest.

Determining the life of upholstery long before it is used to trim the car is a problem which the Ford Motor Company has solved by development of a number of unique and conclusive tests. Before Ford upholstery cloth is released for production samples are eaten by chemicals, pulled apart and even worn out in an especially constructed rubbing machine.

Some of the cloth used in Ford cars is manufactured right in the Ford plant, where it may be held to the required specifications. Most of the upholstery, however, is supplied by outside sources and must prove its fitness before being used.

Color and structure of the cloth are first scrutinized. Then samples are sent to the laboratory for chemical and physical tests. In the test for tensile strength, samples from the running direction or warp of the cloth and from the cross direction or the woof of the cloth are pulled to pieces by means of a standard testing machine. In this connection, it is interesting to note that although the Ford specifications are unusually rigid, the upholstery now being used shows practically twice the required strength.

Wool content is determined by use of chemicals. The sample is given the chemical bath, which dissolves all the wool. The remaining cotton must not only show the correct percentage, but must show a perfect pattern and distribution of cotton fibers as well.

Another test is similar to that which the material will receive in actual usage. A cushion is trimmed with sample upholstery and placed in a machine together with a cushion trimmed with material of known quality, so that the faces of the two cushions touch. Then the machine rubs the two cushions back and forth at the rate of 120 times per minute, until one or the other is worn out. If the sample wears out first, it is immediately discarded. But if it stands up as long as the cushion trimmed with the known material it has proved itself to equal Ford standards of quality.

In selecting upholstery cloth for Ford cars, the Ford Motor Company is forced to be more critical than many other automobile manufacturers. Ford cars, because of the longevity and adaptability to business, social and professional life, are expected to be almost constantly in use, and the materials of which they are built are selected in anticipation of hard wear as well as for their beauty.
